It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

JANUARY, 1851.

THE Managers of 'The Association for the relief of Aged Indigent Females,' in submitting this their First Annual Report, deem it unnecessary to enter into a detailed explanation of the objects of the Association, as they have within a few months been fully set forth by the issue of circulars, and by a printed copy of the address of their President, delivered at the opening of the Home in May last.

At a meeting of the Board of Managers, held in November, 1849, it was found that the amount raised by subscription was sufficient to warrant a trial of the Institution upon a limited scale, and a committee was appointed with powers to procure and furnish a suitable building. That committee accordingly hired the house numbered 36, on Charles-street, on a lease of five years from April 1st, 1850.

The house was furnished in part from the funds of the Association, and the remainder by the donations of benevolent individuals. On the 1st of May was opened by the performance of religious services and by an address from the President.

Eight months have now elapsed, and we have yet seen no reason to regret the course which goodness of our cause, and our trust in Providence to its final success induced us to adopt. On the contrary, our hopes have been more than realized as to the practicability of the plan, and as to the share of favor with which it has been received by those who have been witnesses to its operations. During the time, seventeen applicants have been admitted. One of the inmates, Miss Pamelia Brown, was quite young when she entered, and died after a residence of four weeks. Two have been withdrawn by their friends and there now remain therefore fourteen, whose average age is 72. Of these, four are boarders, who pay a stipulated price per week; the remainder are pensioners, who, having conformed to the regulations of the Association by paying the required premium of one hundred dollars, are thereby entitled to a home for life.

The state of health thus far has been very satisfactory. According to the report of the attending physician, the has been less sickness than might reasonably have been expected, taking into consideration the age and infirmities of those under his charge. And, as a general rule, those who have been admitted have rather improved than otherwise in their health ; owing, no doubt, to their regular and systematic course of life, and to the superior comforts of their new abode compared with that from which they have been removed. In this connection we would not undervalue the services of Dr. Thayer, as contributing to so favorable a result ; and we would here express our acknowledgements for his kind attentions to those who have needed his services.

We have to mourn the loss of Mrs. Andrews, our late Matron, who died on the 15th of October last, after an illness of but fifteen hours. She was called away in the midst of her useful labors, after a life of more than common vicissitude and toil. She was known to many of us, before taking charge of the Home, in connection with other charitable institutions. We feel that we have suffered a severe loss by her death, as she was ever faithful and prompt in the discharge of her duty, and watchful of the interests of those entrusted to her care. She has left behind her an example of perseverance under difficulties, and fidelity to her trusts, worthy of all praise and imitation.

The vacancy, occasioned by the death of Mrs. Andrews, has been filled by the election of Mrs. Abigail Ramsay, who has brought ample testimonials as to her fitness for the discharge of her duties, and we have every reason to feel confidence in the wisdom of our choice, if we may be permitted to judge from the general tone of contentment and good order pervading the Institution.

Weekly religious services have been regularly performed on Sunday, by clergymen of the different denominations. They have generally been well attended by the inmates, as well as by persons residing in the neighborhood.

During the last summer, there was a revision of our By-Laws, into the details of which it is not necessary to enter in this report. The most important change was that which provides for the appointment of an Executive Committee, to which is entrusted the general direction of the Home, between the regular quarterly meetings of the Board of Managers, thereby obviating the necessity of calling together so frequently the large number of members composing the Board.

The report of the Treasurer shows the receipts from all sources to have been $4802,59. The expenditures $2797,23, leaving a balance of 2005,36. Of this amount nearly $700 were for improvements and repairs on the house. After deducting expenses for furnishing, and other items which would not occur again, the actual outlays for the support of the Home may be estimated at the rate of $2200 per annum. This sum, it is thought, will nearly suffice for the present year.

We have the grateful task of announcing an important addition to our future means of usefulness, which we hail with the more satisfaction as it is the first of many liberal acts which we trust the records of our Association shall show, when we shall become more known as the faithful almoners of a discriminating public.

Miss Caroline Doane, who died in this city during the past year, devised to us, as residuary legatees, the sum of five thousand dollars, for the promotion of the objects of our Association. We would render to the memory of that lady the tribute of respect so justly due for so noble an act of beneficence. She was not permitted to witness the practical working of our undertaking, but her far-seeing philanthropy appreciated the merits of the plan, and exhibited a confidence in its success, which we trust may inspire others to go and do likewise.

Mr. Seth Wells, the nephew and one of the heirs of Miss Doane died soon after that lady, and, influenced no doubt by the predilections of his lamented aunt, as well as by his own appreciation of the benefits to be derived from the establishment of our Institution, bequeathed to us, subject to a life interest of two of his own kindred, a house and other property of the estimated value of $10,000.

This is to constitute a fund, called 'the Doane Fund:' the income of which is to be devoted to the gratuitous support of a most deserving class, the Nurses of our city. After spending the best of their days in the alleviation of the sufferings of others, those, who have not been so fortunate as to provide for the support of their declining years, can look to us for a home, and for that care and sympathy which they as a class so richly merit.

During the visit of Miss Jenny Lind to this city, she gave a public concert, the proceeds of which she devoted to charitable purposes. A committee was appointed to distribute the amount received in such sums and to such institutions as they might think most deserving, or most in need of aid. By that committee, one thousand dollars were awarded to our Association, and we appreciate the donation not more highly for the relief which it affords to our actual wants, than to the fact that the award thus made by such a committee is a valuable testimonial of their confidence in the undertaking, and cannot fail as such to have its due effect upon the minds of those who are seeking worthy objects on which to bestow their bounty.

To Miss Lind the mere expression of thanks does not in any measure convey our feelings of gratitude for her benefaction. This and other lands have too long been filled with the echoes of her praise, which her daily acts of liberality have called forth, to need our public testimony to the reality of her benevolence, or to the substantial sympathy which she so habitually extends to those who need her aid.

We have also the satisfaction of announcing, that the City has devoted to our use four lots of land on Rutland street, measuring about one hundred feet in breadth by one hundred in depth. It has given us great pleasure to witness the unanimity with which the grant was made, and we have a firm belief that time will show the act to have been warranted as well by sound policy as by feelings of humanity.

To our patrons and friends would we tender our thanks for their donations both of money and of articles for the use of the Home. As the best reward for their kindness, we would ask them to visit the inmates, and witness the happiness and comfort which their benefactions have helped to produce.

The rapid growth of our city, and the increasing number of applicants for admission, show us that we must seek another and a larger habitation, if we wish to meet the wants of the class whom we are particularly interested in benefitting. The cities of New York and Philadelphia have already demonstrated to us the practicability of Institutions like our own. That in New York has been in operation thirty-six years. Their last report shows the number of inmates to have been eighty-five. During the year they have received several important donations, thereby enabling them to renew and improve their building.

The Institution in Philadelphia has been in operation thirty-five years, and now numbers sixty inmates. These Institutions are regarded in these cities as permanent, and as firmly established as their hospitals or other asylums. Whenever there is a call among us for the relief of suffering, or for the promotion of any good public object, we know that Boston liberality does not fall behind that of her sister cities ; and with the knowledge of that fact do we appeal to the public, with full faith that our object will be accomplished.

Our Home is nearly filled, and still there are many in the decline of life, widowed and friendless, who look to us with the feelings with which the sailor looks for the harbor, when his ship has been shattered by a and tempestuous voyage. Shall we then be able to find such a harbor, where, after the storms and tides of life, the aged and forsaken shall find a safe home, in which to spend the evening of their days ?

the benevolent of our fellow-citizens do we look for reply ; and we have a firm belief, that, ere long, an answer to our own question, we shall be permitted to point to an edifice which shall be a refuge for the aged and indigent, as well as an ornament to our city.

TERMS OF ADMISSION.

ART. 16. SECT. 1. No persons shall be admitted into the Home but those who have resided in Boston during the ten years preceding their application for admission, and bring satisfactory testimonials of the respectability of their character and the propriety of their conduct, unless by the unanimous vote of all the Managers present, the number present being not less than fifteen.

SECT. 2. Persons under sixty years of age shall not be admitted, either as boarders or pensioners, unless by a vote of two-thirds of the whole number of Managers.

SECT. 3. The Board of Managers, may, by vote, admit inmates on such terms as the pecuniary condition of the Association, or the circumstances of any particular case, may seem to demand. For the present, it will be required, as a general rule, that one hundred dollars and the furniture of a room, including a good bedstead, (an iron one if possible,) bed, bedding, and other necessaries, shall be furnished before any one is admitted permanently, or for life. In no case, however, will a proposition to pay this, or any other sum, be considered, by itself, as conferring a right upon the person making it to send any individual to the Institution, either permanently or temporarily; the Society intending to reserve to itself, in all cases, the exclusive right to admit or reject persons who may desire to become inmates.

SECT. 4. Persons may occasionally be admitted as boarders, though not to the exclusion of those who are entirely dependent; and they will be required to give satisfactory security for the regular payment of their board, and to conform, like the other inmates, to the rules and regulations of the house.

SECT. 5. Furniture and other articles brought into the House by or for permanent inmates, are to remain for the benefit of the Association.

SECT. 6. When inmates are pensioners of any benevolent Institution or Society, it is expected that their pensions will be continued, in order to lessen the expenses incurred by the Institution in their support.

SECT. 7. Inmates who have property will be required to secure the same to the Association before admission; and, in case of their obtaining property after their admission, it will be necessary to make it over to the Association, if they continue to remain in the Home.

INMATES.

ART. 17. SECT. 1 The inmates will, at all times, be required to treat the Managers and the Matron with deference and respect, and to pay strict attention to all rules and regulations for the government of the Institution. They will also endeavor, by a quiet, gentle and lady-like deportment, to diffuse an air of cheerfulness and good feeling through the whole establishment, and by acts of kindness and forbearance to gain the esteem and promote the comfort and happiness of each other.

SECT. 2 Every inmate, except in case of sickness, will be expected punctually to attend family prayers, notice of which shall be given by ringing a bell.

SECT. 3. Those who are able, will be required to make their own beds and sweep their own rooms every morning, and to assist those who are unable to do the same. They will also be expected to sew, knit, assist in domestic duties, and, generally, to render all the services they can for the benefit of the Institution and the comfort of those who are still more helpless than themselves.

SECT. 4. A general table will be provided for the inmates, at which all who are able will be expected to attend. If indisposed, a suitable meal will be prepared and sent to their rooms. Simple and wholesome food, of such kind as the Matron, with the approbation of the Managers, shall direct, shall be furnished for each meal. The hour of meals shall, from time to time, be designated by the Visiting Committee.

SECT. 5. No intoxicating drinks or strong stimulant shall be used in the Home, except by order of the physician; and, in such case, they must be administered by the Matron.

SECT. 6. Washing and ironing shall, if practicable, be done on Mondays and Tuesdays of each week.

SECT. 7. All that is necessary for the comfortable support of the inmates of the Home will be provided from the funds of the Association ; no individual, therefore, will, on any account, be permitted to leave the Institution to solicit assistance, or procure work, unless by the special permission of the Visiting Committee.

SECT. 8. No person will be permitted to interfere or find fault with the Matron ; but, if any one has cause for complaint, application must be made to the Visiting Committee, who will receive any statement, and take such order thereon as they may think proper.

SECT. 9. To preserve order and harmony in the family, entire obedience must be paid to all rules and regulations adopted for the government of the Institution ; and it will be the duty of the Matron kindly to admonish the inmates for any violation of the same. Should there be no amendment in the conduct of any one who has been thus admonished, the Matron shall prefer a complaint to the Visiting Committee, whose duty it shall then be to visit and gently reprove the individual. And if such procedure proves to be ineffectual, said Committee shall report the case to the Board, who may take such action thereon as the circumstances may seem to require. No vote of removal, however, from the Home shall be passed at any meeting, unless the intention to propose such a vote shall have been inserted in the notices calling the same.

SECT. 10. If any inmate desires to visit her friends, leave of absence must be obtained from the Matron, whom she shall inform of the place where she intends to stay and the probable length of her visit, in order that no uneasiness may exist on her account, and that, in case of sickness or accident, the Managers may know where she is to be found. The time of making visits, as well as their frequency, is left to the discretion of the Matron.

SECT. 11. The friends of inmates, and the public generally, may visit the Home on the afternoons of Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday of each week, between the hours of two and five o'clock; but, at other times, a permit from a Manager will be required. In no case, however, will any one be allowed to visit the inmates, or go through the establishment, without first obtaining the consent of the Matron.

SECT. 12. Should any inmate find herself dissatisfied, or unhappy, she is at liberty to depart, taking with her such articles as belong to her. Should she leave within six months from her admission, the premium which has been paid on her account shall be returned, after deducting a moderate charge for board. But should any inmate prove disobedient or troublesome, the Managers reserve the right of dismissing her at any time.

AMENDMENTS.

ART. 18. These rules may be altered or amended at any legal meeting of the Board of Managers, provided that, in the notices calling said meeting, it shall have been stated that an amendment or alteration is to be made.
